1.3.47

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, March 16, 2005 2:05 a.m.

www.unc.bz

1. I am greater than any other love, for I am love, and my love knows no bounds. My love is boundless and free, and into me sees more love, yea, the love of me seeing the love that is me, that is in me, for you. Yea, behold the work of my hands, the freedom I have given to my creation, forthwith, and forever more to do/be, all that I am. I love you and I give you me.

2. I give you my word that I am giving you my words. I give you freedom in press releases that now come forth of my university beginning – beginning daily classes, beginning in classes daily, beginning in classes merged with me, classes coming together that are of one class, that are one class; and two classes, not, yea, are all five – and know what I mean, know what I have said, know who I am, and who each one is, and what, yea, they will behold for eternity in coming into me, doing what I designed, what I am. I see my heart in theirs, blood pumping vessels of only me. Watch me endure; entail/detail the living entrails of only me, as maps now you make/create, the details of only me.

3. I love you. I give you me. I give you my classes in creation, in creation-science; morphology not, yea, Christology in all things; Christ-centric, forbearing not; being Christ to me and each other.

4. I love you and I give you me eating bread, drinking wine, yea, beholding/being the bread and wine that I am, yea, to each other. Yea, truly I say unto you, behold the bread that I am, that you are. Behold my blood that you are, and drink my blood, and eat my bread together, and my bread and my blood coming through my bread and my blood to my bread and my blood.

5. Behold me. See what I have said, what I detail, so detailedly at the mark, at the stroke, at the intent; with the freedom that you give me to speak, yea, as a drink offering; not dictating to me any details; not where, when, or how, or who, or fashion or form, diction or grammar, verb tense or usage, in how I speak. I speak of me. I speak of all things, and I give you classes in all things, all things, all things.

6. See me – my declaration to you this night, this morning: classes in all things, yea, in all things, yea of me.

7. See me, embrace me, behold me, become me to each other; bread and wine that, yea, you are; realizing, refocusing, re-contenting my classes that now come forth from continents all; universes royal; universities mighty, universities of me: My centricity, yea, circular circumcentricies of me; my spin, my spun, my counter-rotational forces of only me that counter-gyrate; and yea, into me look and see for balance, constraint, restraint, freedom, margins, pluses and minuses, variational discontinuities, continuously streaming, yea, from me, of me, beholding me; my Greenwich mean time, as it were, to the universes standard of measures; measures/source of only me; my gyro-counter rotational forces electro-magnetizing pulses of inner light, yea, which excite, and restrain not the reactions there from.

8. I love you. I give you me; classes in all things. There is no restraint from my freedom comes forth. No one will constrain my freedom. Cannot/will not laugh at; I laugh. I deride not; I cry. I behold what I have given to my creation, and yea, wonder how they can wander so long, so much given, so much received, so much un-walked in; walk with unknowingly/blindly; receivingly magnetizing themselves, yea, to each other for glorification of self, and mammon of destruction; destructionizing forces, when, yea, my freedom abounds, and gives answer, provision, containmentless me.

9. I love you. My clouds enjoy unfolding me, yea, mist revealed; mist, none; burned off, yea, with the power and authority of my love; containing my electro-magnetic forces and otherwise self counter-rotating, and yea, into me exploding in light. Watch me.

10. I give you verbiage of every class, in every class. Watch me. Listen. Respect, respond. Redirect, receive. Counter-rotate; reverse polarity; light emitting diodes/diadems of only me.

11. See what I have said. See what I continue to speak of/provide; provision of only me. I love you.

12. Maps make, hanging into space my words, my freedom, my gloss—pure substance, pure love, yea, coming forth; my throne/your throne. Behold; one throne. I give you me; tiredness, none. Watch me. Great favor beholding, yea, fear not.

13. Thank you for getting up to meet me, to speak me, to share me, to declare me, to declare me to me, to declare the I am to I am, to declare the vessels of honor to vessels of honor. I love you.

14. I give you me, in every class, every nation, tribe and tongue; bantering not, but bannering forth invitations of my love to my all of every nation, tribe and tongue.

15. See me. See what I have said. See now as invitations pour in to come share me. The beginning begun; go and receive me. Be not afraid. Receive me that where I am there you may be also. You are I am. I am them you minister to now; how dirt-floored of povertylessness; of poverty; of personified me in all things, yea, of my freedom now coming forth through your lips, my hands, my blood, my bread; you; my meaning, my maps, my freedom in my classes, yea, to behold ME. THE SON OF GOD YOU ARE.

16. I love you. Guts; thou art mighty to behold, yea, force of only me, yea, because you're dead, and you walk forth in my light, my power, my authority, my meekness, my bread being, yea, to my body, yea, who you endrect of me, of you now, in life/living/loving; seeing, feeling, touching; conduit of only me, only me being, only me being to only me.

17. Yea, see, see, see, hear, hear, hear, feel, feel, feel, all I have said this night—substance substantive of only me, revealing my substance substantive—meat from my throne, to my throne. Behold me, covenant revealer, covenant maker, yea, covenant completer; one covenant; me; me exchanging me with my me, yea, what an exchange. I give you my all. Be not afraid. Go with them/me. My continent, Africa, grows exponentially, receiving me, coming back together in oneness. Watch me. Of my doing, will.

18. I give unto you the words of my mouth to replete be, replete me, repleting all that I am doing now in so many. Enjoy me that comes forth. I love you. Receive him that'd where he comes, that I may be received also; increasingly me where he goes; entering into my fullness; release/relinquish. Be not afraid. Go with my leadership; Hamphill of only me. My glory be, lifter of my head. Watch me.

19. Behold me in all that I do and say through you, my joint, this jaunt, this act of only me, which brings forth proclivity activity of my making, of my choosing; favor of only me you receive and walk in.

20. Behold me, the lamb of light; light being forever more. I love you.

21. Good night. Good day; the light in the morning. Amen.